POLITICAL SITUATION IN INDIANA.

Both Parties Working Like Beavers-A Glance Over the Field in West Virginia-The West-Murcheson Letter.

CINCINNATI, October 29 .- [Staff Correspondence Constitution. |-The republican papers are just now making the most out of the Sackville-West letter. That letter was a godsend to a sinking cause, but there is evidence that it will fail of its purpose. The fact that the bogus Murchison letter was written by tricky Pat Egan, a man who fled from Ireland, ring the burden of his indiscretions to be by Mr. Parnell, will kill whatever effect it might have had upon the Irish vote It must not be supposed that the professional Irishman can swing around the votes of people who have become American citizens in good faith and who recognize their duty to the country in which they live, as well as a fond memory of the one they left behind them. If the West letter had been written in reply to one equally genuine it would have been re-sented but if West was idiot enough to fall into Egan's trap the Irish voters of the United States are not.

A Republican's Views.

The very use which the republicans are making of the letter is proving a boomerang to them. Speaking to a prominent business man and a republican here today, he said: "It is the duty of all Americans to stand as one man against foreign interference in our domestic cerns. Yet here the republican party invites that interference and then makes use of it to harass the party which is responsible for the government. They well know that Mr. Cleveland, the candidate, cannot influence Mr. Cleveland, the president, in his treatment of the minister of a friendly country, and that Mr. Cleveland will vindicate the honor of the country. I have faith enough in my fellow man to believe the party which forces upon the president such ill-advised action as would bring about war will not be indorsed by the incident but further illustrates the points made in my first dispatch, and that is that the republicanism of the Steve Elkin and Dorsey brand, which is now abroad in the land and that the triumph of republicans means the restoration of the credit mobilier era of politics. The cry of boodle is in the air, and trades and combinations of a character which requires the corupt distribution of office and money are being formed.

After making this bid for a corruption fund, the same paper in order to cover its tracks says:

Girding their loins in the old democratic style they must allow no local divisions to interfere else all is lost This is no time for democratic dissensions anywhere.

The Situation in West Virginia. From what I have already dispatched about West Virginia, and conflicting claims made by party leaders, I went to Wheeling last night, and took in a personal view of the situation there and I am now prepared to say that it is as nearly certain as any matter political ever is that West Virginia will cast her electoral vote for Cleveland and Thurman. The ma-jority will not be large, in all probability less than 4.000, and not more than 5.000 at the outside, but that the state will remain in the ocratic column is undoubted. There are abundant causes for this belief. It is well to confess at the outset that the republ cans have been making gains. That is why the majority for Cleveland is placed at so parrow a margin. The campaign on behalf of Harrison has been fought with almost desperation. No such fight has ever been seen in the state. During the past week meetings were held by the high tax advocates at the rate of fully 200 a day, and speakers of national reputation, like General Beaver of Pennsylvania, McKinley of Ohio, Reed of Maine, Stewart and Woodford of New York, and others, have been rushed across and up and down in the state, in their desperate efforts to make a break in the ranks of the southern sisterhood. Ha the mining regions along the line of the Balti-more and Ohio railroad in the Kanawha valley, and in this manufacturing city, the tariff issue has been worked to the utmost and not without effect. A very considerable number of democrats have gone over to the Harrison column, and will cast their votes for the republican presidential electors.

Money Flowing Freely. There is another potent auxiliary which has been called to the aid of the republicans, and that is money. There is no doubt that between sixty and seventy-five thousand dollars have been sent into the state within a week, thirty usand alone going in certified checks to Charleston, whither the chairman of the state epublican committee followed a few days After to look after its distribution, and where he was immediately met by republican local leaders from all the central and southern counties. The republican efforts, which were they not offset by the democratic advantage. would probably be sufficient to give the state to their calculations. In fact, it has been under-stood on all sides and the word has officially politics. Within the last three days, howstood on all sides and the word has officially gone out from republican headquarters, that ever, everything has been made serene and the outside of the president the contest was to cen-ter on the legislature, and everything will be Gresham men are foremost in the republican It is said that the price of this new born dea

The Pennsylvania jobber claims to have positive informa-tion that the democrats are colonizing Indiana, icans are almost sure to have the senate, but there is a well grounded hope that the democrats will retain a sufficient majority in the house to hold the balance of power on joint and have sent unlimited money into the state as a corruption fund. Russell Harrison, feelballot and thus secure the United States senaing the importance of being the heir apparent, has been giving publicity to this matter in a manner which has called out the attention of But to go back to the presidential probabilithe state. Democratic Committee-Chairman Jewett pronounces the entire statement false, and talks about it in a salty manner. It is the ties. I have shown that through the tariffssue the republicans were in a fair way to make gains. These will be offset by the scandal of Indiana politics that corruption aliemocracy from two main causes. One will ways prevails. A prominent gentleman, speakbe democratic gains among the agricultural

"Indiana is a poor state. In this city of 140,-000 inhabitants, there is but one millionaire, Bill English, a democrat, who ran as vicepresident with Hancock and his money does nobody any good. The railways are all owned Speakers for the democratic side, of high standing in the counsels of the party, elsewhere, consequently there are no rich men to pay campaign expenses and the state is a Senator Vest, of Missouri, and Colonel John R. ready prey to the corruption fund. Indiana Fellows, of New York, have been sent into the remote mountain counties, often in localiwent before the republican convention and pledged herself that if Harrison were nomities where a democratic political speech has not been made since the close of the war, and nated she would not ask the national committee for a single cent. They thus got the white elephant and are now loaded down. Cincinnati, Chicago, Pittsburg and other places have the result will be that all the big democratic counties will come to the front with unusual majorities for Cleveland. This is the main thing which held the state in line for the been called on for boodle and are responding liberally. It is no wonder then, that knowing Indiana as well as he did bills that Dudley cover ed the state with two dollars and carried it for democracy in 1880 and again in 1884. Several housand democrats feeling that the state was secure and safe failed to go to the polls and the Garfield. It is the same plan which is being ralied upon now, only the price of votes has result was the decrease of majorities of those risen from two to ten dollars."

A CONFLICT FEARED When the Democratic and Republican Clubs Get Out on Parade, Get Out on Parade.

Indianapolis, October 29.—Mayor Denny today called together the chief marshals of the democratic and republican parades set for Saturday evening, also the chairmen of the democratic and republican county committees. They were in consultation a long time. Both refused to abandon their intended demonstration, and each have published a long list of officers for the occasion. It was finally agreed that each party should parade only upon certain streets of the city, and to this end the mayor drew a formal written agreement, giving the line of march and time for starting and the disbanding of each column, and both marshals have signed the agreement. The mayor hoped that this arrangement may avert any conflict, but is dissatisfied that both sides will not agree to abandon their demonstration. The chief marshals have pledged to use their utmost efforts to prevent any trouble. In the meantime, both sides are redoubling their efforts to get out all their clubs and make a good showing. H. H. Flick, the majority will be from three hundred to five hundred. In the first district which has been carried by General Goff at the last three elections, the contest between G. W. Votes are being or which is in New York, and it is from this source that the funds come. The republicans claim that they will carry the first, second, fourth, fifth and ninth districts, and it is in these they are spending request. it is in these they are spending money and it is in these they are spending money most freely. The democrats really regard only the second district as in doubt. There is much apathy among democrats, and despite all efforts, the campaign, though conducted with unusual pertinacity and vigor, cannot be made exciting as far as either democrats or republicans are concerned. The republicans claim they will correct the state by 8 000 padority for Oliver cans are concerned. The republicans claim they will carry the state by $,000 majority for Oliver H. Dickey for governor, but the best opinion seems to be that the democrats will carry it for Fowle 12,500. Cleveland will probably get as much as 15,000 majority over Harrison. The third party or prohibitionists can hardly command over 5,000 votes. Despite all their claims many of them will vote the full republican ticket.

Thirty Thousand Voters in New York Who Registered After Hours.

New York, October 29.—Another local political sensation was started this afternoon by the Evening Sun. By the state law all public offices were ordered closed after 12 o'clock noon on Saturday. Notwithstanding this law the registration offices were kept open last Saturday all day, and over 33,000 persons registered. As it is impossible to separate those who registered before noon from those who registered before noon from those who registered later, the Sun states that the entire list may have to be thrown out. The Sun interviewed tifty of the leading lawyers in the city, and states they all said that the registration office was a "public office," and within the scope of the Saturday half holiday law.

As istant United States District Attorney Rose said today: "There is nothing in the story. The state law was simply made to cover banks and other fiscal institutions. I contend that boards of registration are not public offices within the meaning of the law. The same question was raised in Brooklyn, and it was then decided, or at least it was agreed, that the Saturday half-holiday."

Fellow Democrats and Fellow Citizens: If I should happen to touch upon tariff in the course of what I am about to say to you, I hope you won't be shocked. The truth is, in that tariff matter, it was a long time between drinks now wasn't it? They used to tell a story down in Atlanta, which grew to be so pers mat that, in sheer desperation, I begin telling it myself, It was all about a certain Georgia major, who submitted to every manner of insult from his guest on account of hospitality, until the luckless visitor, having exhausted all other methods of affront, attempted to discuss the tariff, when he was promptly pitched out of the window. Times have changed since then, anyhow I am going to risk your pitching me out of the window tonight. I find in this morning's Chicago Tribune a leading editorial which undertries to establish two things:

First, that the bloody minded rebels of the south, who are still upon the war path, are seeking to break up the industries of the country in order that they may get cheap goods and cheaper labor, and, secondly, that I am personally engaged in this conspiracy. I co-fees that I am unable to understand how the south can get cheap goods without the north's getting them, and the least's get ing them, and the west's getting them, and the west's getting them, and the west's getting them and the west's getting them, and the record as witness to the fact-if statistics did not abundantly show it—that the south is paying higher wages to it working people than are jaid in any other part of the world. His Political Days Are Over, But He Wants to See Harrison Elected.

Detroit, October 29.—General B. F. Butler spoke to what was undoubtedly the largest political gathering of the campaign at the Detroit rink tonight. The large building was completely packed, while several people got no nearer than the outside doors. The general was in poor voice, and it was with great difficulty that he made himself heard.

Mr. Butler began by saying that he was an old man, and that his political days were over. He had been a greenbacker and was proud of it. There no longer existed any necessity for a greenback party, as they had secured all they wanted. It made no difference to him, he said, who was president—a president could not do much harm in any way, but he preferred to see Harrison elected, because he believed in the protection of capital and labor. Mr. Butler proceeded to an elaborate discussion of the tariff and the Mills bill. Referring to the Sackville-West letter, he said it made no difference whether the Murcheson letter was a torgery or not—the minister's letter was not.

CHICAGO'S STREET CAR STRIKE.

CHICAGO, October 29.—The spirit of riot on the north side is still rampant. Yesterday cars on Forth avenue line, near Milwaukee avenue, were stopped every trip by obstructions, and great crowds thronged the sidewalks and intimidated passengers, but no damage was done, and only a few stones thrown. Several North Halsted street cars were derailed during the afternoon at a point where the street had been torn up by pavers. The police had considerable trouble dispersing the crowds at various points along the line, and were kept busy all the afternoon. A number of boys were arrested for throwing stones at the cars, were arrested for throwing stones at the cars, and two men locked up for resisting the police. North avenue and North Halsted street cars were run into the barns before dark. Both these lines are manned by new employees.

Both these lines are manned by new employees.

A strike by the recently imported employees of the Yerkes street car system is among the possibilities. The new men held a very unsatisfactory conference with President Yerks yesterday, and then called a meeting for Tuesday night to canvass the situation. Until yesterday the men who were brought here from Philadelphia and Kansas City during the big strike, took it for granted that the transportation to Chicago was at the expense of Mr. Yerks, and that the board furnished in the barracks by the company was to be obtained on a similar basis. Saturday 200 new hands were paid for the first time, and found that the fare to Chicago and board from the time of their arrival here had been deducted. At the Weld street police station the shocks were felt at 11:25 o'clock, and were preceded by a rumbling sound, and three distinct oscillations were felt, followed by a tremulous movement. The police and others who were on the streets say the movement was preceded by two reports not unlike those of a heavy gun or thunder, and then came a distinct movement to the ground. on Drummers.
Washington, October 29.—In an opinion washington, October 29.—In an opinion rendered by Justice Bradley in the drummer tax case of William G. Asher vs. the State of Texas, the supreme court of the United States today declared unconstitutional all state laws imposing a license tax upon commercial travelers not residents of the state imposing the tax. Asher was a resident of New Orleans, and while selling goods by sample in Texas, was arrested and fined for violation of the state law making it a misdemeanor for any person to do business as a commercial traveler without first having taken out an occupation tax. Asher contested the constitutionality of this statute, taking the ground that it was repugnant to the clause of the constitution giving congress the conclusive right to regulate the interstate commerce. The state court decided against him. Asher appealed to the supreme court, which today gave a decision in his favor. The court, in its opinion, says that it sees no difference between this and the Robbins, Tennessee, case, in which the state law was held to be unconstitutional. As to the contention of the authorities of Texas that the decision of the supreme court in the Robbins case was in conflict with prior decisions of the court, Justice Bradley very decidedly says that even were this true, the court has always supposed that the latter decision has the effect of overruling a prior decision with which it may not be in harmony. The court them says: "We do not propose to enter into a renewed discussion of the matter at this time."

The Municipality Council Ask for an Explanation from Emperor Wil-liam, and Get It.

lowing, which is a text of the concluding passages of the speech, was sent to Mayor Forck-enbeck:

I cannot but give expression to the very painful reminisce ce of my journey. While I have devoted health and strength to securing the peace; in i welfare of the fatherland, and thus of the capital also, by creating ties of friendship, the dally press of the capital has given publicity to and spoken about the affairs of my family in a manner which a private individual would never tolerate. I am not only painfully impressed by this, but my displeasure has been aroused. I wish, above all, that the continuous citing of the name of my departed father shall cease. It most deeply injures my feeling as his son, and it is, in the highest degree, unbecoming.

I trust that when I choose Berlin as my principal residence, and as a Berliner, it attracts me, the popple will avoid making the private relations of a family the subject of press discussion. The duties of uniting the prince with this people for the purpose of making the fatherland great and happy are numerous and important enough for them to devote their whole attention to it in a thoroughly patriotic manner, allowing all other affairs, such all have already mentioned, to rest without giving them publicity. They should combine to use their strength in a faithful devotion to these high and noble aims. I trust the representatives of Berlin, to receive whom, gives me special pleasure, will endeavor in this matter to perform their part."

The emperor greeted Prince Bismarck most heartily, repeatedly shaking hands with him. They drove to the castle during a heavy rain and amid the ringing cheers of thousands.

The Pall Mall Gazetie Says Americans Ought to Have More Sense.

London, October 29.—The Pail Mall Gazette, writing about the Sackville incident, expresses the opinion that the excitement caused by the letter in America is largely stimulated for political effect. It regrets that Americans are not superior to such outbursts of feeling, except for a chance of catching Irish votes by abusing England. It thinks that no one but an American would care two straws what Lord Sackville wrote, said or thought.

Still a Mystery in Los Angeles.

Los Angeles, Cal., October 29.—The identity of the mysterious Charles F. Murcheson, writer of the Pomona letter to Minister Sackwille West, is still a secret. There is no truth in the story telegraphed from here that W. A. Bell, a lawyer of Pomona, is the real writer of the letter. This is given on the authority of H. G. Otis, editor of the Times of this city, who has been in the secret from the first, and who stated to an associated press representative that the story was absolutely untrue. When asked when the name would be given to the public, Mr. Otis replied that he could not answer, except to say that it will be made public when the necessity of the case required, "and that," he adds, "is a question to be determined hy those who are in possession of the facts." The associated press representative obtained from him an emphatic denial that he was the author of the letter.

McLane, American minister, and Goebel, French minister of foreign affairs, were among those present. The American minister, in replying to Goebel's toasts to his health, said: "The joy that the American experienced in receiving the statue of liberty was equal of the pleasure you experienced in offering it. Before giving the emblem you had given the thing itself. All of the great truths upon which modern social ordor is based were elaborated and spread throughout the world by French genius. We received them with ardor, and finished by developing them. If we have succeeded in reconciling the liberty of each with the liberty of all, we cannot forget that the germ came from France. The modern world gravitates toward the political orbit traced by France; and America. The symbol which the statue of liberty represents will become a reality." The speech was loudly applauded. Aunual Conference of the Women's Auxillary South Georgia Conference.

Perry, Ga., October 29.—[Special.]—Despite the unfavorable weather that has prevailed since the convening of the Annual Conference of the Women's Auxillary Mission ry society of the South Georgia conference here on last Thursday morning at 9 o'clock. Perry has enjoyêd a rare season of grace, and large crowds have been in daily attendance. Delegates from auxiliary societies from nearly every station and cfreuit of the South Georgia conference have been present throughout its sessions, which has been ably presided over by Mrs. R. D. Walker, of Savannah. The other officers of the society are. Mrs. J. B. Cobb. of Macon, corresponding secretary: Mrs. W. W. Williams, of Macon, treasurer; Mrs. F. C. Vaugin, of Thomasville, recording secretary: Mrs. J. P. Wardlaw, of Sandersville, president of juvenile work: Mr. R. F. Burden, of Macon, auditor. The reports all show that during the past year these noble women have done an immense amount of work in the cause of foreign and domestic missions, and as an auxiliary of the Methodist Episcopal church south, have been instrumental in spreading the gospel of Christ to an extent that must have been truly gratifying to every worker in the vineyard. Every year their field of labor is widening, and their power for good increasing. We have no room in this briefreport for statistics, else we could show a most maryelous growth for its few years of extetence. The organization is now in a most flourishing condition, religiously and financially, and no doubt the conference of 1889 will show an increase of membership and means that will be simply assounding. The work of these noble ladies is blessed of God, and cannot fail.

On Thursday night the juvenile society of the Perry Methodist church, under the guidance of the superintendent of the Perry Methodist Sunday sebool, constructed a missionary ship. An immense congregation witnessed the exerces, and had it not been for the reain, our elegant and spacious

OLD AND BEAUTIFUL.

A Counterpane That Was Woven Seventy-

While visiting Misses Aritha and Arminda Mitchell last Sunday we had the pleasure of inspecting several quaint and curious specimens of work wrought by their nother, Mrs. Annie Mitchell during the first year of her married life, in 1812 and 1813. The prettiest specimen presented was a counterpane, which married life, in 1812 and 1813. The prettiest specimen presented was a counterpane, which required twelve long, weary months to complete. The cotton of which this beautiful piece of work was made was picked by Mrs. Mitchell and her husband, Robert Mitchell, during the fall of 1812, during the honeymoon of the then young newly married couple. The seed was picked from the cotton as they sat by the fireside during the long winter nights, and planned and mapped out a programme which they hoped would bring happiness, peace and prosperity, and well must their plans have been laid for they lived long and happily together, and before crossing over the river to rest, saw their children grow to manhood and womanhood, and take their cotton into smooth thread, and carefully spooled it for the work before her. After a sufficient quantity had been prepared—and it took many mouths to accomplish her task—Mrs. Mitchell brought the old loom that her mother had given her into service, and in a short time the cloth was ready for the finishing touches. Turkey-red and indigo thread was then prepared by the dyeing process, the counterpane laid off into beautiful designs and the tedious work of embroidering commenced. In June, 1813, the beautiful piece of work was completed. Soon after the work of embroidering was commenced Mrs. Mitchell was stricken with disease, and for twelve months was not able to sit up except as she was propped in her bed, but her nimble fingers were kept busy, and finally the greatest piece of artistic needle work of that day and time was ready for inspection. And we can truthfully say that, though three-quarters of a century has passed since this counterpane first fact the wondering gaze of Mrs Mitchell's friends, it is still beautiful, and the clear color of the embroidery looks as bright as though they had but recently been worked into the time-faded fabric. This memento of their mother, long gone with her husband to she other shore, is highly prized by Misses Aritha and Armanda, but they have consented to entrust it to the writer, who will put it on exhibition for them at the East Alamanda fair, and we trust that everybody present will see it, for as a work of beauty and anticinity its live in the season of the control of the careful of the control of the careful of the prize of the same fair, and we trust that everybody present will see it, for as a work of beauty and anticinity its live in the same fair, and we trust that everybody present will see it, for as a work of beauty and anticinity its live to the same fair.

The Cuthbort Liberal gives the following account of a peculiar death: "On Monday night of last week a negro woman named Easter Daniel was found dead under a house in which her son lived, on Mr. 4. F. Gore's place, near Brooksville. She was left at the house in the afternoon with no one but a small child. When the hands returned from work, about night, she was missing. Scarch was made for her in every direction, but it was not until a late hour that she was found. It was noticed that near the chimney on the gutside of the house a box had been removed. The floor was very near the ground, and it was necessary to remove a plank from the floor to see under it. When the plank was removed she was found dead, lying upon her breast. She had gone under the house in search of and died, evidently without a struggle, from t disease, of which she had attacks before."

Saturday night a negro by the name of Berry Bardeman, who was nightguard for Mr. Tom Johnson, at Sandy Cross, Oglethorpe county, where his sinhouse and contents were burned last week, was hot in the side while standing on the scales on the pletform. It seems two parties in a buggy, supposed to be white men, passed the ginhouse about 12 o'clock at night, driving a white horse to a buggy. They seeing some one on the platform, shot at the object more in fan than anything else, and caused a painful wound in the side of Barry. The parties are spotted, and will doubtless be brought to acsount for their foolishness.

The tree stands about twenty paces inside of the cemetery gate lending to the park. wounded by Harmon Cohen, in a quarrel at the house of Jennie Payné, alias Fulcher, a disreputable white woman on Ann street, four doors north of Harrison, last night. Jennie is the wife of a boatman now on the river, and is also said to be the undivorced mate of Won Lung, a Chinese merchant, with whom she lived in Augusta and Waynesboro. She has figured conspicuously in a number of small riots since her arrival in Savannah about three years ago. During that time two men have been shot in altercations about her, and a number of pugilistic encounters have occurred between her numerous lovers. Jealousy was he cause of the probable marder. Cols Nolan and the homicide, Cohen, were drinking with Jennie. Three quarts of mean liquor were put away. After fluishing up the whisky, the quartette adjourned from the kitchen to the front room, which is used as a parlor and bedroom. A few moments later, according to the statements of those present, Colston said to Cohen: "You must not talk with Jennie. Payne." Cohen replied : "I will talk to her if she allows me to do so." This angered Colston and, umping up, he pulled off his coat and vest, exclaiming: "By God, you won't," and at the same time drawing a butcher's knife, about twenty inches long, from his pants. "Lock ont, there is a big snake on the sidewalk there!" exclaimed a colored woman Friday. This attracted the attention of two colored men, one of whom stepped his dray, took a plank and went for that snake with a vengeance. Every time he would hit the snake it would wriggle and twist, as if bent on getting out of the reach of the blows of the drayman's plank. Directly a little boy came along, Donegan Towers, and said, "That's my snake," and he picked up his toy serpent and carried it into the house, while the drayman took the "broad grins," crawled back on his dray and drove off muttering, "No wonder mudder Eve was deceived by de snake; I'se deceived my self." Macon, Ga., October 29.—[Special.]—About fourteen months ago there removed to Macon from Atlanta a jeweier who formerly lived in Macon many years, but afterwards moved to Atlanta where he resided several years, and then returned to this city. The said jeweier a few days ago learned that his repairer had been selling his goods and making no return of the anoney, and had also padd his individual bills with jeweiry, etc., The jeweier had him arrested Saturday afternoon on a warrant charging larceny after trust.

This afternoon he was arranged before Justice Poe, and demanded an indictment by the grand jury. He was placed under a $200 fond which was given by Captain T. S. Massenburg. Macon, Ga., October 29.—[Special.]—This morning Officers Fennel and Winters arrested two negroes, Tom Allen and Jim Sims; in East Macon, on suspicion of having made a murderous assault on Mr. Ben Neal on Saturday hight about 11 o'clock. Two negroes were engaged Saturday night in loud talking and making a noisy disturbance on the sidewalk in front of Mr. Neal's house and he stepped to the door and requested them to make less fuss. The only answer given to this request was a pistol shot fired by one of the negroes. The ball struck Mr. Neal right above the left nipple, inflicting what was first supposed a fatal wound. Today, however, Mr. Neal is considered out of danger. Allen is thought to be the negro who firedithe pistol. When he was being carried to the city hall by the officers, he told a negro woman that if he was arraigned for having shot Mr. Neal, that she must come to court and swear he was at her house at the time of the shooting. The officers think they have the right men. The attack on Mr. Neal was murderous and entirely unprovoked.

AN INVESTIGATION OF THE JURY.

The Indignation Meeting at the Artesian tions-The Jury's Work. Yesterday morning the jury in the case of the state vs. George H. Eddleman, returned a verdict of not guilty. Last evening there was a remarkable scene at the artesian well-a large gathering of At lanta's citizens, who were there to express their indignation at that verdict.

The action of the jury was the one topic of conversation. It was discussed everywhere, The story of the verdict; of how it was reached, with scenes in the jury room; of the proposed investigation of the rumors concerning the make-up of the jury ; of the meeting at the artesian well, the speeches made and the resolutions adopted; and of what may be expected today-all is given here in detail:

THE VERDICT.

Twelve Men Say That the Killing of Tom Gresham Was Justifiable Homicide.
Twelve men in Fulton county have said that the killing of Tom Gresham was justifiable

Just twelve men-and yet they have made me George Eddleman a free man.

The verdict is, "Not Guilty." Yesterday morning about 8 o'clock Mr. Eddleman left the jail in charge of Assistant Jailer Seab Osborn. On the way to the court house Eddleman had little to say.

A few minutes after the prisoner and Mr. Osborn had entered the sheriff's room down stairs the jury entered the court house and passed up within a few feet of the door which Eddleman had just entered. The prisoner watched them as they filed past.

"Come ou, Seab," he said, "let's see what they've got for me." Together the two men entered the court room Within a few minutes all Eddleman's attorneys were with him, and presently his wife and his son, Wallace Eddleman, entered the room. He kissed his wife, but there was little or no conversation.

Judge Marshall J. Clarke was occupying the room in which the trial had taken place and the clerks were busy with the formation of juries that are to serve this week. The jury had disappeared into the jury room and while the court room was slowly filling up, while the clerk was calling off the names of next week's jurors, and while Eddleman and his counsel sat there together, the jury inside was taking the last ballot.

About ten minutes before ten o'clock Judge Richard Clark entered the court room.
"Is the solicitor in court?" he asked as he oked around.

Mr. Hill was not in court, but was sent for.

The jury reported that they had agreed upon a verdict.
"Are you ready for the verdict, gentlemen?" asked the judge as the solicitor took his seat. "Ready, your honor."

"Bring in the jury."
The twelve men filed in. There was a silence all over the court-room. If anybody stopped to guess at the result, he never spoke or whispered to his neighbor about it. Mr. Frank X. Bliley carried the paper in his

On every hand a desire to know how the How did the jury stand on the first ballots? How many ballots were had?

When was the verdict made Was the jury tampered with? These were the leading questions thrown out by every one, and this morning THE Con-STITUTION gives the public a truthful and acchrate answer to all, but the last one. The last question is not an easy one to solve, but certain facts which surround it are given. THE LEADING QUESTION ANSWERED.

On the first ballot the jury stood: Six for not guilty. Five for manslaughter. One for murder. The jury had five ballots.

In the courthouse When the jury left the courtroom Saturda night and entered the juryroom, Mr. Blile called the body down, and asked if they were ready to proceed with business. The juror were all ready and anxious, and a bailot wa taken. When the count was made, the situ tion which has been given, was ascertained. The vote was somewhat of a surprise to some of the jurors. Together the two men entered the court room.

Within a few minutes all Eddleman's attorneys were with him, and presently his wife and his son, Wallace Eddleman, entered the room. He kissed his wife, but there was little or no conversation.

Judge Marshall J. Clarke was occupying the room in which the trial had taken place and the clerks were busy with the formation of juries that are to serve this week. The jury had disappeared into the jury room and while the court room was slowly filling up, while the clerk was calling off the names of next week's jurors, and while Eddleman and his counsel sat there together, the jury inside was taking the last ballot. About ten minutes before ten o'clock Judge Richard Clark entered the court room. 'Is the solicitor in court?" he asked as he

Just now that jury is receiving more attention in Fulton county than the presidential election, and the jurors are being discussed more than any other men upon the top side of

The verdict which the twelve men rendered yesterday morning is the cause of the discus-That verdict will long be remembered.

It is not for THE CONSTITUTION to condemn or approve the decision of the jury but to tell the result of the work. And here it is: HOW IT WAS RECEIVED.

The verdict caused the greatest amount of gossip when it became known, and throughout the day nothing else was discussed. In the hotels, upon the streets, in the shops and on the floors of the business houses the Eddleman verdict was debated.

Some indorsed the verdict, others did not. On every hand a desire to know how the verdict was obtained was manifested. How did the jury stand on the first ballets?

How many ballots were had? When was the verdict made?

Was the jury tampered with?
These were the leading questions thrown out by every one, and this morning THE Concurate answer to all, but the last one. The last question is not an easy one to solve, but certain facts which surround it are given.

THE LEADING QUESTION ANSWERED. On the first ballot the jury stood: Six for not guilty.

Five for manslaughter.

One for murder. The jury had five ballots. The verdict was made yesterday morning In the courthouse.

When the jury left the courtroom Saturday night and entered the juryroom, Mr. Billey called the body down, and asked if they were ready to proceed with business. The jurors were all ready and anxious, and a ballot was taken. When the count was made, the situation which has been given, was ascertained. The Vote was somewhat of a surprise to some of the It showed that the body was equally divided between a punishment and an acquittal. The case was then discussed. The Jury became a debating society, and the jurors, for the time being, changed themselves into awyers. The discussion lasted half an hour,

A SECOND BALLOT was taken. This ballot showed a change. It gave Mr. Eddleman one more vote for freedom

The picture may not be life-like as to face and form of the jurors; the jurors' friends may not recognize them, but it is actual and life-like as to the vote. On that ballot seven men voted to acquit Gresham's slayer, and seven men are so marked.

If any one doubt the truthfulness of the picure let him question any member of the jury.

THE WEEK'S WORK DONE. That ballot which has been photographed with this story was the last the jury had that night. Soon after the vote Judge Clarke called the body out, and instructing the members not to consider the matter on Sunday, ordered the bailiffs to take them. The officers obeyed the instructions, and the jury was taken to the Metropolitan hotel.

THE CONSTITUTION has already described the manner in which the jurors passed Sun-The members ate their three meals, drank ice water, walked the floors, framed their heads in the windows and made signs to their friends upon the streets. But they did not consider the question which was in their custody. THE THIRD BALLOT.

There were four farmers upon the jur Farmers generally get up with the birds. Old habits clung to the quartette of soil-tillers, andabout day dawn yesterday morning when Charley Keith's parret began calling for its cracher, they turned out of bed. With four nen moving around impatiently, the other eight persons tound sleep impossible and were soon up and dressed. Then, as the city clocks were striking six, Mr. Bliley said:

"Well, this is Monday. It ain't Sunday, as you all know, and if you are ready we will have another vote."

The jurors fell in line, and the third ballot was taken. It showed that Sunday's rest or Sunday's confinement had made two changes. The changes were both in the prisoner's favor, and gave him nine votes, leaving two for manslaughter. The ONE VOTE FOR MURDER remained there, and with a jury of nine to hree, Eddleman arose from his couch in jail. The vote was quite satisfactory to those who were for the prisoner's acquittal and showed those against it, that they could not hope for anything more than a mistrial. Soon after the vote the jury went down to breakfast. The meal was a good one-just such as the Metropolitan always gives juries; and was enjoyed-just as hungry jurors always enjoy

Soon after breakfast the jury began discuss ing the case. Many brilliant speeches were made, and the speeches had an effect. Then after the talk was all over another ballot was ordered by Foreman Bliley. The ballot showed a change, and the change showed that the prisoner was gaining strength. It gave him ten supporters, and the tenth man was the one who

The change indicated that the opposition to an acquittal was weakening, and another discussion started. The discussion was growing warm, when the bailiff tapped on the door and notified the men they were wanted at the courthouse. They walked along, though, with heads erect and a firm step, and were shown direct to the jury room. There the discussion was renewed, and in less than a half hour

That verdict is known, and that verdict is what caused the meeting at the artesian well

The verdict flew about with the winds and in a short time it was known all over town. Then the people began to talk and the talk was like the people—varied and abundant. Some indorsed the jury's verdict, as has been said, while others condemned it. The talk went on and in a short time all kinds of rumors were afloat. Some of the rumors were ridicalous while others appeared to be quite serious. The most ridiculous rumor was one

EDDLEMAN WOULD BE HUNG before midnight and that his home would be destroyed. Among the serious remarks, however, was one that the jury would be burned in effigy and that a crowd would be addressed by incendiary speakers at the artesian well. These remarks could not be traced to anything like a reliable source and Captain Dave Wiley, of the Western and Atiantic road, who used his influence against violence soon after the slaying, was approached.
"Yes," said he, "the boys are mad-very

He was bending over his work-bench making two large wooden keys for a fair. The keys were large but not hard enough to unlock the undertak-er's fountain of knowledge touching the jury. He raised his head and dropped his saw as the news-gatherer entered, saying: "Oh, come in; want to see you."

The second ballot was repeated. Mr. Bliley would not deny it. The third and fourth and fifth were given. The undertaker smiled. Then the story of how, when and where the

About that missing list there has been in talk. On it there were, it appears, three hundred names, and from those names the jurors were selected. Juror Albrighton was the last an, and as he was sent into the jury room, Deputy Clerk Myers arose, saying: May it please your honor, that complete

"Just what Buice told me under the carshed in Birmingham.' "What was it?" "He told me that Eddleman's son had given him a ticket for himself and wife to Texas and five dollars. He went to Birmingham and sold the Texas coupons." Other officials know nothing of the missing list and have stories to tell. Judge Clark Questioned.

Judge Clark was just walking out ef the Markham house dining room when he was

He stepped aside. A BAILBOAD MAN. For two or three minutes the crowd called in vain for a speaker. Finally W. M. Johnson was seen standing near the well and calls were made for him.

He was helped over the iron railing while the crowd yelled in applause.

"Fellow citizens," said he, "I am a railroad man. I am not used to speaking. I knew Tom Gresham and when he died I lost one of the best friends I ever had. He was as good a friend as anybody ever had. While I am a plain man I think I am a fair man, and may be a sensible man. I know right from wrong, and I know that verdict this morning was an outrage and a lie."

The applause was deafening.

ANOTHER SPEAKER.

ANOTHER SPEAKER.

"Give ns another one!" "Somebody else talk!" "Burke! Burke!"

W. B. Burke, the bookstore man, was helped over the railing.
"Gentlemen," said Mr. Burke, as soon as he could be heard, "I have lived in Atlanta for eleven years, but this is the first speech I ever made. I believe, and I believe every honest man in Atlanta believes, that the verdict of these twelve men was a digrace to Fulton county, and I don't see how any decent man can associate in the future with a man that signed that verdict."

Again that frantic applause went up. The crowd was inferessing, but, old or young, in broadeloth or in rags, they thought as one man.

"Who part?" "Get we there seembody!"

"Who next?" "Get up there somebody!"

A SALVATION ARMY PROTHER.

Finally Nat Anderson was seen near the railing and a call was started for him. It was the most fortunate thing that could have happened. The crowd was in a serious humor and the sudden turn to the ridiculous came in

The latter sentiment seemed to be the more popular and the crowd yelled again.

Mr. R. C. Campbell was then called upon.

"I run on the W. and A.," said he, as he faced the crowd, "and mest of you know me. Tom Gresham was a gentleman—a fair and square man. I knew him. I have seen him help many a man. "Right you are!" yelled the crowd.

ANOTHER RAILROADER.

The n'xt speaker was Will O'Neil.

"I can't make a speech," said he. "I am a railroad man, and run on the Air-Line. I am sorry just like you are because a good man, a laboring man, was shot down by a bull headed M. A. B."

The applause was tremendous.
"I belong to three secret organizations. I don't know how many Tom Gresham belonged to, but I know I always called him 'Brother' to, but I know I always called him 'Brother' Gresham. The secret organizations are a good thing, and there is no telling when our wives and children may need their help. All the opitaph I want when I die is 'B. of L. E.' It was a verdict like this that brought on the riot in Cincinnati. Gresham was a poor man—a W. and A. man—and worked like we do for his daily bread. George Eddleman was a real estate man, and wore a fine beaver. He was a capitalist, you might say, but Tom Gresham was a good sober citizen, and George Eddleman was a rotten, druuken, unprincipled man. I'm one of the ragtag down here tonight, but I'm a better man than there was on that jury. Judge Dorsey and Albert Cox are leading citizens and they are mighty smart men, but they won a victory over justice, and that ain't anything to be proud of. It ain't, anything to brag on. I heard of one wise man today and that was the fellow that told George Eddleman he had better not come up town today. George Eddleman didn't come, and that so ne time in his life he took good advice. Frank Bliley was on that jury—foreman of it. He's an undertaker, and that's nearly the same business as mine, but, before God, if I had a yellow dog to die, he would be too decent for Frank Bliley to bury.

"I would as soon trust my life in George Eddleman's hands as in the hands of that jury. [Applause.] The best thing for us all to do is to home tonight. Let's go home to our wives and children."

Mr. R. O. Ford read the resolutions. The first one was.

Reading the Straws.

In all the guessing and speculating on the vote in New York, the World has hit upon the most interesting plan for catching, classifying and reading the straws that float on wind. An interviewing corps was organized and sent out upon the streets to take the preferences of representative sections of the population.

The result, as far as the national ticket is concerned, is summed up as follows:

The only significance in such a canvass of course lies in the changes, and in the predilections of the new voters. Of 4,314 citizens interviewed, 422, or ly 10 per cent, will vote differently from what they did four years ago. Of these, 203 are changes from Blaine to Cleveland and 159 from Cleveland to Harrison—an apparent gain of 104 for the democrats. About 1 in 15 of the total number, or 294, will cast their first vote at this election. Of these, 198 ex-pressed a purpose to vote for Cleveland, against 96

The World remarks that this is not conclusive, but indicative, so far as it goes, which is to say that Cleveland's chances are the best.

The Herald, after vigorous warning two weeks ago, seems inclined now to a more hopeful view of the election.

Chester S. Lord, managing editor of the Sun, says, in reply to an inquiry from the Boston Globe:

I think that the election in New York state will be very close, but that the chances favor Harrison's carrying it by about seven thousand plurality. Connecticut acts as though it would give a republican plurality. New Jersey, democratic; Indiana, close, h the chances in favor of the democrats. Editor Godkin, of the Evening Post,

So many uncertain elements enter into the calc Intions in this state that I don't think any one's prediction as to the result is worth much. But the chauces, as far as one can judge, seem in President

Cleveland's favor. Since it is now generally admitted that the battle of New York state is to be fought and won in the city, it is pleasant to observe that Hewitt and Grant shook I ands in front of the president on the reviewing stand Saturday night, and that both the rival candidates have publicly proclaimed their loyalty to the national ticket. Fortunately, the Sackville West mine was sprung ahead of time by the republicans, and there is time for the president to wipe out the effects of that blunder.

EDITOR HALSTEAD should watch out for results next month. As an irreconcilable republican, he may be compelled to leave

The Bloody Shirt Resort.

The bloody shirt will be made the most conspicious feature of the close of the pending campaign. It will be waved this week with all the fury that the republican press and management can muster, and we may look to a repetition of the bloody shirt campaign of four years ago.

When Mr. Blaine began his campaign for the presidency he based his race on the high ground of statesmanship; but he soon saw that he could not shoulder the sins of the republican party, and that he must either go down with it or change his policy, by apealing to the passions, the prejudices and the corruption which formed the foundation on which rested the hope of republican suc-

With defeat staring him in the face he of election on the degree of animosity which he could incite against the south. He sunk all other issues to the bloody shirt, and purened his policy against the south with unabated bitterness. Instead of helping Mr. Blaine this injured him, and to his attitude against the south can be attributed, as much as to anything else, the direct cause of his defeat.

The republican campaign of this year is. In this respect, very similar to that of four years ago. The bloody shirt has, until the present time, played but very little part in the campaign; but the republicans, driven to desperation, are again appealing to it as the only hope of their political salvation. With the exception of a few prominent republican rewspapers, of the Cincinnati Commercial-Gazette order, the republican press has, on the whole, conducted a dignified campaign. We are, therefore, surprised to see that they should change their policy on the eve of the election, and turn again to abusing and misrepresenting the south. argues that their last hope has gone, and is the best indication yet of the desperation of their condition.

The New York Mail and Express, of which we expected better things, devotes a two column editorial to the vilest sort of abuse of the south; and after appealing to the country to remember "the wise and blessed career of the republican party,' (God save the mark) it proceeds to show that this is a campaign against the solid south, and that if Cleveland is re-elected, the country is forever and eternally doomed. It declares that in such event, the north could never expect anything in the future, and will lose its voice in national politics; that Texas will be divided up into four states, which will give the democrats six more senators; that the democracy will indorse polygamy and Mormon heathenism and make Utah a state; and that it will take in so much of Montana as can be relied on to give two more democratic senators; that all future vacancies on the supreme court bench will be filled by southern sympathizers; that the black race will be again entirely subjugated to the whites, in slavery; that the national treasury will be robbed to pay for the losses of the war, and that Cleveland will demand renomination for a third time, and will seek election without the vote of a single northern state, which will be rendered possible by his skilful contrivance.

After this display of ridiculous bosh the Mail and Express asks, "What is the meaning of the ominous unanimity of the sentiment in all the southern states, which bodes our country ill?" and replying to its own question it returns to its vomit as follows: It means that since Johnson's amnesty proclams on the southrons have resolutely, and b sen', driven away from their states every north-settler, have poured upon American citisens;

coming to them from sister states, such contamely, so surrounded them with proscription, public and private and social, done them so many injustices, that they have substantially stopped all tendency of the freemen of the did free sintes to interact into any part of the solid south.

It means that they have dragooned into slavish acquiescence in the loss of their political rights, eight million negroes, those set free by the proclamation of Abraham Lincoln, and their descendants It means that for a series of years the only question which has divided the parties in the southern states has been one of party spoils and office, and that that party has secured these offices at the elections, which convinced the voters of those states that it was most devoted to the lost cause, and most firmly resolved that the lost cause was not lost, and most letermined to make the lost cause triumphan throughout the country.

Fellow-countrymen: The above is a short but truthful condensation of the spirit of the south which now inspires the democratic party, and which the country will have to yield to if she is now thoughtless of her destiny.

Fortunately for our present peace, none of these sues have been brought forward in the pending campaign, but they are just as surely within the purview of democratic success as that the question purview of democratic st of free trade is now openly discussed.

A victory for the misnamed democracy will be victory for the most arrogant aristocracy; a victory for free tra e and starvation wages, for agricultural famine and empty shops; a victory for slavery; victory for state rights; a victory for ferson Davis and everything for which he stands; and a victory for the rebelli Let free men think on these things, and then bravely resolve and patriotically vote

The insane asylum is the place for the man who wrote this stuff, and if hypecrisy was a penitentiary offense the editor of the Mail and Express ought to spend the remainder of his days in stripes. He is the man who flings at the top of his editorial column every day a verse from the scriptures, and the particular one selected and appearing along with the above editorial is as follows: THEREFORE I ENDURE ALL THINGS FOR THE ELECT'S SAKE, THAT THEY ALSO MAY OBTAIN THE SALVATION

This probably means that the editor of the Mail and Express foresees the result, and gives this evidence of showing that he is prepared for it. It is well that he has made up his mind to endure four years more of democracy, for that is just what he will be compelled to take, whether he likes it or not.

THE state fair, which will be held in Macon in a few days, will be a success in every way. There will be a fine show and a large crowd, as there ought to be.

Providential Slavery.

We print elsewhere a letter written to the Christian Advocate by Bishop Henry M. Turner, of the African Methodist church. We retain and adopt the headlines under which the Advocate prints it. It is indeed a remarkable letter, and it emanates from one of the most remarkable representatives of the negro race that this country has produced. There are American negroes more famous than Bishop Turner, but not one of them has reached his intellectual level. He is not only a clear and forcible writer, but he is one of the most powerful pulpit orators in the country.

His letter is worth reading. He is wise enough-and he is the only one of his race that has been wise enough thus far to acknowledge the fact that American slavery was a providential institution which worked for the good of the negro race. Ten years ago, THE CONSTITUTION, discussing the race question in the south, predicted that. in spite of the influence and tendency of abolition literature, the time would come when a representative negro would announce that the institution of American slavery was the salvation of his race.

Bishop Turner is that representative negro. This is a phase of slavery that the philanthropists fight shy of. They refuse to recognize any good in the institution, for the reason that they have been taught to believe that slavery in the south was a species of barbarism. Well, it was bad enough, but it was not barbarous. It had its hardships and its troubles, as every phase of life has, but it brought the negro in contact with Christianity and civilization. It was a university in which the negro was disciplined and taught. It is the medium through which a race of savages has been carried from barbarism to freedom and citizenship, and this fact every negro of intelligence will recognize and appreciate. Bishop Turner is the first negro to make a public announcement of it, and by so much is he ahead of his race in the south. As to his emigration scheme, we cannot indorse it. Pressed and harried by the political wretches who control the public opinion of the north, the south has said and done many things that were best unsaid and undone; but there is no disposition here to get rld of the negro. He is one of the factors of the situation here. He was raised here and he belongs here. Here he is understood and appreciated as nowhere else on earth, and here he will stay and work out

Mr. GRADY's progress through Texas has thus far been in the nature of a perfect ovation. These tributes to Mr. Grady are tributes to Georgia and to THE CONSTITU-

An Awkward Fakir.

The suggestion that the letter of Jackville West, the British fakir, who represents Great Britain in this country, will damage the democratic party comes from republican sources. The letters which have been published were written last September. They were concocted in Beverly, a summer resort in Massachusetts, and they were concocted in presence of West himself, who was privy to the conspiracy. They will not hurt Mr. Cleveland or the democratic party. Here is a British fakir, angry with Mr. Cleveland on account of his retaliatory message, conspiring with such republicans as Harrison Grey Otis to defeat the president for re-election. The trick is too transparent to go down with the American people, who are in the habit of dealing with just such tricksters.

The president should have demanded the immediate recall of the British fakir. It is not too late now, and we are glad to learn that steps have been taken by the state de partment to rid the country of the official presence of Jackville West.

That is all that is necessary. The democratic party cannot be defeated by a British

Some of the republican papers are mad because the president went to New York. The same papers will be madder still when they learn that Mr. Cleveland is re-elected.

Colonel James's Withdrawal. Today's Constitution contains the anthe thirty-sixth senatorial district, in which e retires from the race for the judgeship of he Stone Mountain circuit. This announce nent will meet with general regret among his hosts of friends throughout the state. Senator James has served two terms in the lower ouse of the general assembly, and last session he served in the senate. He turns over the trust confided to him without spot or blemish. and his constituency can ever look upon his clean record with pride and pleasure. It is seless for us to say that there ber in either house who stood higher in the estimation of his brother members than did Colonel James. He went at first to the front rank, and discussed with the foremost the most important questions that came before the legislature, and was always at his post of duty. He is full of energy and enterprise, and always takes advanced views on all questions. He is a fine lawyer, and would have made an excellent and most acceptable judge, but against the advice of friends he retires to take harge of certain enterprises which will soon be developed, that will require his time and

Who Invented Playing Cards,?

2. Playing cards are probably of oriental origin.
The ancient name of the French game, "tarots," and the ancient terms "naypes," and "naibi" in Italy, The from cards are derived ic. The game of cards was robably introduced in Europe by Arabs, Jews and other oriental races before the thirteenth century The Saracens made the g. me especially popular in Spain and Italy. The first record of the game in Germany was in the "Stadtbuch" of Augsburg in 1275, in which it is stated that Rudolph J. amused himself with playing cards and other games. The game became so popular that the manufacture of eards was an important industry in Europe in the fifteenth century. Various governments prohibited the playing of cards, partly from meral considera-tions and partly in Eugland to reduce the foreign importation of cards. The marks upon the suits of cards are supposed to have been originally intended to represent the four classes of society, hearts representing the clergy, spades (spada a sword) the nobility, clubs the seris and diamonds the citizens. The figures were at first historic representations. On the early were pictures of David, Alexander, Casa harlemagne representing the nationalities of the Jews, Greeks, Romans and French.

ROYALLY ENTERTAINED.

Mr. Grady and Party Banquetted at Austin, Texas.

SEGUIN, Tex., October 29.-[Special.]-The Georgia visitors were entertained royally at Austin yesterday. Governor Ross, headi committee, received them at the depot. They were escorted through the new capitol and were given a magnificent banquet at the Hotel Driskell, where Mr. Grady made a short address to the business men, in response to an ddress from Governor Ross. In the afternoon Mr. Grady made an address at the university at the request of Dr. Wagoner, president, and. at the blind asylum at night. A reception was tendered at the residence of Governor Ross, at which Mrs. Ross and the ladies of Austin were presented to the visitors. Today the people of san Antonio met the visitors at the depot and tendered them a supper and reception at the club house after carrying them through the Alamo and the old cathedral. Later the vistors were received by General Stanley at the military post and a serenade was given them. They declare San Antonio is the best city in Texas and San Antonio is enthusiastic.

A Forest of Hands.

From the Galveston News. From the union depot the visitors were driven in carriages to the fair grounds, at the entrance to which they were met by the Fourth regiment band, and an immense crowd eager to get a glimpse at the distinguished representatives of the state that first after the war set its face to the morning and proceeded to adapt itself to the changed condition in the south.

The announcement that a reception would be given them at the Windsor, commencing at 8 o'clock, had the effect long before that hour of packing the large vestibule, the billiard room and pool room of that building with people, including the leading business men of Dallas, eager to make the acquain tance of the Georgia visitors.

Not the least conspicuous in the assemblage wa the Dallas democratic club, whigh arrived on time, with its band and its banners and its colossal rigures, the latter wearing plug hats. The reception, which lasted two hours, was characterized with 'an Intense degree of cordiality. Hon, Henry Exall, assisted by Messrs Charles Fred Tucker, Robert Cowart and J. J. Eckford, intreduced the multitude, which included about 100 Georgians and quite a sprinkling of republicans, who, casting politics the wind, had planted their feet on the solid bases the fact that the distinguished Georgians were the guests of Dallas. NEW YORK, October 29.-[Special.]-Another big trade in southern property has just been made, and despite the efforts of those interested to keep the transaction secret, it has leaked out. This will undoubtedly give a new impetus to the growth and development of Anniston, and make the future of that enterprising young city doubly assured. Mr. Woods is a typical southerner, and ardently devoted to, the welfare of his native section. He has great influence in financial circles here, as is evidenced by the fact that some of New York's most substantial and conservative mean of fortune are associated with him in this Anniston purchase. They are all gentlemen of wealth, and far sighted in matters of finance. Mr. Woods never losses an opportunity to direct the attention of his moneyed friends to the failroad properties, mining interests and manufacturing industries of the new sou has safe and attractive fields for investment. His loyalty and entinusasm are unwavering, and what he has just accomplished for Anniston is no more than he would delight in doing for every legitishate southern enterprise.

Mr. O'Nelll as Chairman. On motion of Mr. R. B. Blackburn, Hon. James F. O'Neill was elected chairman. On taking the chair Mr. O'Neill was applauded. He made a brief speech.

"I thank you, gentlemen, for the honor of presiding at this meeting, and will state a few ets concerning my position and the circumstances under which the meeting has been called. Let it be understood, once for all, that in spite of the denials of the city press—in spite of the failure of the press to state our position, there is a man here who intends to stay in the race for mayor. His name is Walter Brown, and tonight he will make the opening speed this campaign, which, beginning with this meeting tonight, will be conducted straight on until the 5th day of December.

"The so called conservative ticket has an nounced that its platform is Atlanta-not morality now. No man loves Atlanta better than I do—and the same may be said of those who will support Mr. Brown for mayor. Atwho will support Mr. Brown for mayor. Atlanta is my own true mother—not my stepmother—and I have as much interest in her welfare as any man on The Costitution or the Journal, or any man who has come in here since I was born. I know Mr. Brown, he has been tried, and been found not wanting. He has stuck squarely to this friends, and steadily refused all bribes from the opposition. I want to state that he will not be influenced by any class of men in Atlanta when he takes his seat as mayor af the city.

"The conservatives, so-called, call our ticket the M. A. B. ticket. We deny it, and reply that the so-called conservative ticket is the S. A. G. ticket. I-mean by that the Smith and Grady ticket, but out by two men, who are now demanding that their will shall be the sense of the people of Atlanta, and who say that any man who raises his voice against the S. A. G. ticket is an enemy to Atlanta. I think that it will be found that Atlanta has more than just two friends before this cam. mayor af the city.

"This thing has solidified me in my opposition to that ticket and the manner in which these two men are trying to break down all opposition. It seems to be the programme to deride and vilify all of the promoters of our ticket. Those, for sooth, who will not submit to the dictation of the S. A. G. ticket are regarded as bad little boys who must go home and behave themselves.

"They are playing the gamo of persecution with all who oppose their ticket. They resort to questionable methods to get our men off the ticket. It would not be so bad if they simply used persuasion, if they simply said, 'we are the tax payers. We represent property and ought tax payers. We represent property and ought to be supported, as they have said, but it is a solemn fact that where we found good men and put them on our ticket certain supporters of the S. A. G. ticket have demanded their withdrawal from our ticket or their discharge by those for whom they work. Shame upon employers who make such demands when they know it is a matter of bread and meat with their employes. Will we submit to this? [Voices no! no! no!] Not much; but we will show them that a few thousand people in this city who pay street tax—which we hope to see abolished soon—have some rights. Mr. Brown is going to run in spite of the fact that the S. nt property and ought aboished soon—have some rights. Mr. Brown is going to run in spite of the fact that the S. A. G's, say that he must not. If that S. A. G. ticket should succeed, the people will be but puppets in the hands of political bosses. If Atlanta is going to be ruled by the press, truly we had better just turn the city over to The Construction and Journal at once and go home.

"Walter Brown will make this race as a man—claiming the right to let the people of Atlanta decide who they want for mayor on the 5th of next Decimber.

"I arose, gentlemen, simply to state our position, and I will be followed by speakers of more experience and eloquence, who will now entertain you."

"My fellow citizens," said Colonel Arnold, "I msorry that I shall not be able to make a speech tonight. I wish I could. I came to testify, by my presence at least, my approval of this meeting. I have stood by the people in every contest. I was born and reared in that faith. The greatest objection to this conservative movement is that it is an attempt to browbeat the people. It is worse than probibition itself. It is the attempt of a few people to take charge of Atlanta. I are the people in the charge of Atlanta. I are the people in the charge of Atlanta. I are the people in the charge of Atlanta. I are the people in the charge of Atlanta. I are the people in the charge of Atlanta. I are the people in the charge of Atlanta. I are the people in the charge of Atlanta. I are the people in the charge of Atlanta. I are the people in the charge of Atlanta. I are the people in the charge of Atlanta. I are the people in the charge of Atlanta. I are the people in the charge of Atlanta. I are the people in the charge of the people in the charge of servative movement is that it is an attempt to browbeat the people. It is worse than prohibition itself. It is the attempt of a few people to take charge of Atlanta. I am sick and I'm telling you this seriously. The question is simply, shall the whole people rule the dity, or shall a few people rule it? That's all there is in it. Now I advise you to stick together and redeem Atlanta. The leaders of this new movement are the ones that three years ago put Atlanta at a disadvantage, and on a retrograde motion, so far as her business and commerce was concerned. You had to fight time and again to redeem the city, and now they want to steal it under another name. Two years ago they arranged a compromise, and they got a hold on your body and britches. The conservatives, with the mayor's vote and the votes of the two or three dry men already in the council, will have a working majority and they'll want to steal it under another name. Two years ago they arranged a compromise, and they got a hold on your body and britches. The conservatives, with the mayor's vote and the votes of the two or three dry menalready in the council, will have a working majority and they'll put you in chains again. You must beat their whole ticket, and elect Walter Brown. This conservative ticket is a New York ticket—and elect Walter Brown. This conservative ticket is a New York ticket—all the railroads around here and now they want Atlanta. They tell us we need somebody to manipulate our bonds. We have 75,000 people, paying taxes on $40,000,900 worth of property, and yet they tell us that we can't float $350,000 worth of bonds without this Wail street influence.

"Why are they anxious to get held of Atlanta and negotiate those bonds? Oh, yes, those bonds? They remind me of the party that was fishing—three men in a skiff. A squall came up and upset their boat. Other beats put out from shore to save the drowning men, when the attention of all was attracted to an excited Irishman on shore, the burden of whose cry was 'Save that red-headed man!' But why are you so anxious about the red-headed man!' But why are you so anxious about the red-headed man! Batt.' He was interested in that saving, and Wall street is laterested in that saving, and Wall street is interested incret than a dollar and a half.' He was interested in that saving, and Wall street is interested in that saving, and wall the was alterested in that saving, and wall the was interested in that saving, and wall the was interested in that saving, and wall the was interested in the saving and wall the propose to pay it. The Pedmont Park company is in the nine hole. Ding-done fine pict of financiering, but it don't the working man. "I am strongly op but times are hard and they could only get such and such a price from their Wall street friends. And all the while there is an arrangement by which somebody makes $50,000 out of the city.

"They want to sell us out body and breech. But Atlanta is the mountain. We don't have to go to anybody to sell our bods, they are willing enough to come to us. We can sell our bonds in our own city. Joth of the daily papers are parading that we have to go to Wall street to sell our bonds. Why, old Joe Brown can take them all and put them in his pocket. They just want to get control of the city.

city and expect to have peace?

"I like to see a man get rich, but because a man is rich is no sigh that he is better than any other man. In the olden times it was said that 'eternal vigilande is the price of liberty.'

What good to a city is a man who just gambles in stocks and crain? Is a man who pastes. What good to a city is a man who just gambles in stocks and grain? Is a man who makes money gambling any better than one who makes it by hard work as a mechanic? Have they any more right to rule? The supreme court of Georgia says that that sort of gambling is meaner than faro. Do we have to look to gamblers in stocks and bonds for our morality? I don't object to a man following that business, but I do object to his putting himself up as a pattern of morality, attempting to take care of our morals and neglecting his own. It's humbug; but here's Walter Brown—he don't deal in anything of the sort."

Three cheers were given for Mr. Brown.
Then Mr. Arnold resumed, contrasting the patriotism of the Vanderbilts and the Goulds with that of Old Hickory and Daniel Webster. He likened the situation in Atlanta as that of the frogs who wanted a king and Jupiter sent them alstork as king.

"I advise we to be ruled by your own year."

them astork as king.
"I advise you to be ruled by your own people at home," said Mr. Arnold in conclusion.
"Elect your own rulers and stand together.
Are you going to do it? If you do you can, elect your men as easily as before." Mr. Walter Brown,

Mr. Walter Brown was introduced by Chairman O'Neill as a man who could not be ntimidated, and who would show the necessity for opposing the conservative ticket.

After the applause had died away Mr.

After the applause had died away Mr. Brown said:
"Dodgers were scattered through the city to-day bearing the talismanic words 'Teil It.' I am here tonight to tell it. THE CONSTITUTION says that nine-tenths of the people are for the conservative ticket and the Journal echoes THE CONSTITUTION. Mr. Hoke Smith in his paper emphasizes this nonsense, and it is thus shot into the people by the two daily papers. daily papers.
"The people's ticket has no newspaper back of it and for this reason we have to tell it. Tell it from mouth to mouth because the press has fused to tell it, and is trying to throttle th refused to tell it, and is trying to throttle the voice of the people. I am here tonight to tell it. [Applause, and cries of "Tell It." "Tell It." There is in no land a greater bulwark of the liberties of the people than the press rightly directed. I rejoice in the honor which it fairly wins. But there is another picture. It is now presented in Atlanta, and when the press oppresses the results and the press of the trying at it is now.

doing in the city, it is clearly time for the people to awake from their sleep and stand ready to guard their liberties. When the press is unwilling to give both sides in any community, that community is in dauger. All that the people ask is, "Give both sides of the greatien." 'I fear not, the people fear not the result of the ballet box.

"The Constitution and Journal said that there would be no meeting here tonight.

Why? Because they are afraid of the issues.

Why? Law propertied. I am proud of this which will be presented. I am proud of this meeting. It is not like that one which was advertised in both papers, but which did not come off in the tirst ward. It was to have been held in Schell's hall in the biggest ward in the city—a ward that can vote 1,700. But in the city—a ward that can vote 1,700. But it didn't take place, and the conservative club was not organized in that ward. Why? Because nobody was there except the candidates on the conservative ticket. Colonel Glenn was there and he was loaded, too, but did not have a chance to make his great speech. Postponed, because he had no crowd. I have counted the people in this meeting, and I counted the people. people in this meeting, and I counted the peo-ple in the meeting which indorsed the con-servative ticket. There are twice as many here tonight as attended that meeting. [Ap-plause.] There were just 350 in the intesting which indorsed the conservative ticket. There which indorsed the conservative ticket. There are 1,200 people here tonight. I give you the actual count. But everybody here is solid for the people's ticket. That makes a bigger difference still, you see. I expect the morning paper will say that this meeting was a failure; that only a few people were present; that Brown did not speak; that Arnoid's neck was in a sling, and couldn't speak; that O'Neill had nothing to say, and wind it all up by stating that as a reporter was passing Mr. Brown's office he met a prominent anti-prohibitionist, who said so and so. [Laughter.]

"In the Lord's name, why don't they let the "A colored brother named Jones was praying at Big Bethel church—I think it was Big Bethel. The prayer didn't suit the pastor, who said: "Stop, Brother Jones. Let Brother Johnson pray a while; he's better acquainted with the Lord than you are." [Langhter.]

"Colonel Arnoid always makes a good shot. He told you about the Exposition Cotton mills—that pretty piece of land that the city sold for $15,000. Who owns those mills? Why, Mr. Hugh T. Imman, Mr. Dan Speer and others. Mr. Imman, you know, is on the Peachtree ticket. That $15,000 was paid in and then paid out again—paid out illegally, and if I had been mayor—as I will be on the first of January—I would have vetoed that and said 'You shall not steal from the people.' That is what I would have done. [Applause.]

"My kind friends, the Journal, Mr. Hoke "My kind friends, the Journal, Mr. Note Smith, I suppose, said today, that Walter Brown had the nervo to speak—that his back-bone was the biggest thing about him. He told the truth once. I've got backbone enough to make this race and win it, too."

[A Voice—"Didn't they give that $15,000 to the Piedmont park gamblers' whisky his pocket. They just want to get control of the cit. Armold referred to Oglethorpe park as a case in point, charging that after the city had spent $250,000 out there the property was sold to "some of these conservatives" for $15,000.

They say there have been about 100 changes. What do they amount to? We have beaten them 1,200 or 1,500 every time lately. That's the truth about the defection, despite the newspapers which are published not to print but to hide the truth. And the resignations from the ticket—it is true that certain men on the ticket were told to get off the ticket or they would lose their heads. Are you going to stand that? That whole ticket ought to be beaten 2,000 votes just for that thing. They tell you they will take away your bread and meat if you vote against their ticket. Things have come to a pretty pass when that is done, "They cry 'Peace! Peace!' Whoever broke the peace? Who started this agitation? It wasn't the people, northe patriots—it was done by miserable agitators who have run it for the purpose of getting held of the city. Are you going back to the people who have divided the city and expect to have peace? Who started this issue? The prohibitionists did it. "There is no nobler man in Atlanta than John McGuirk. I shall not say why he came off the ticket. He works, you know, at the Imman compress. I will not say what he was made to get off, but this audience can find out why he got off. I do not blame him—none of his friends blame him. He has a family to support.

Mr. W. T. Gentry is one of the brightest and best men in Atlanta Mr. Hoke Smith is counsel for, the Bell Telephone company. I shall not say that he asked Mr. Gentry gave me his reasons for desiring to leave the ticket, but I will one say that he asked Mr. Gentry gave me his reasons for desiring to leave the ticket they were satisfactory. I said, 'You ought to come off.' Messrs, Gentry and McGuirk will not run, but they will write for me. I leave this fair-minded audience to say why they left the ticket. They will write fo fighting me. Every worklagman here is paying taxes to put water in those rich homes outside the city. What right have they to tap our water main and steal our water? And yet, Mossrs. Speer and others who live out there didn't want to come in when it was proposed to extend the city limits. They wish to reap the benefits of the city without paying for them. The water beard have no right to go beyond the city limits, even if they get pay for the water. Only go out Peachtree? Why not go the other way?

[A Negro—"if you are elected will you vote for a police commissioner who will vote for negro policemen?"]

"I'm already on the police board. If that issue comes up I will meet it squarely. The council will settle the matter as to who shall be police commissioner. I don't know yet the right choice for police commissioner.

right choice for police commissioner.

"I asked Colonel Glenn how the entire conservative ticket stood in reference to leaving the liquor license on its present basis-we they put their signatures to a paper not to dis they put their signatures to a paper not a structure it? His reply was that he had asked the ticket about it, but the prohibitionists would not agree to sign. When you ask then how they stand on the liguor law, they reply, 'Attanta;' how about Piedmout park? 'Atlanta;' in favor of abolishing street tax? 'Atlanta' in favor of taking liquor tax or other city funds and buying school books for the children? 'Atlanta.' That is all they will say, and you can't find out how they stand on anything.

"I am in favor of free school books—all other while schools have free books—they change nblic schools have free books-they change in the books too often here, and in this way ex-tert more money from poor men than they can afford to pay. Think of a poor man paying $5 or $6 every term for books for his children. The next council should pass a free school ook ordinance.

"One was passediby the present council and he aldermanic board killed it. We are going or run a man for alderman who will vote for see books and all of our ticket will favor free books. They will all be in layor of taking up those water pipes too. We propose to stop other leaks besides this big one. "I am not an M. A. B., but there are as true, honest men in that association as live in Atlanta. They say there are 3,700 of them. Some people thought so when Jim O'Neill was elected. How does Mr. Glenn stand on all of the issues that I have mentioned? Atlanta 2 the issues that I have mentioned? Atlanta? The conservative ticket is a Trojan horse teem-The conservative ticket is a Trojan horse teeming with locked up schemes. The ticket shifts. First opposed M. A. B.'s. They now say that those who oppose it are against Atlanta. This meeting don't look like it. I have lived in Atlanta all my life—but I will not compromise with wrong.

"If there are 500 prohibitionists in Atlanta who will sim a paper agreeing not to have a who will sign a paper agreeing not to have a prohibition fight till 1891 let them say so and let prohibition aght till 1891 let them say so and let Colonel Glenn speak out on all the issues. Piedmont park, free books, water pipes, etc." In conclusion Mr. Brown said that the issu s in the campaign were personal liberty and free dom of speech. Chairman 'O'Neill said that the campaign was now opened and would not close until the 5th of December. Dodgers will the used to announce the meetings, etc.—"as the press will not act fairly."

Mr. Brown stated that the friends of the people's ticket will meet at Adamson's hall, in the fourth ward, next Monday night, and that something will be told that will open the Nothing About the Ticket.

It was a noticeable fact that nothing what-ver was said about the ticket as a whole. It is supposed that the ticket will be completed by making Dr. Curtis the nominee for alderman, indorsing iMessrs. Hirsch at d Kontz, and nominating Messrs, Smith and LeSeur for the fourth and sixth wards.

NEW YORK. October 29.-The stock market today was dult and sagging and quite feverish througout the day, and final prices generally show declines of fractional amounts. Decrease in earnings for Septractional amounts. Decrease in earthings to the tender of the Reading company was again the principal subject of conversation on the street, and as a majority of the operators are holding off pending the cleation. Bears made use of the opportunity pre ented to hammer stock, and, incidentally the whole list, but very little effect was had outside of a few stocks, which were the special objects of pres-sure. Reading again assumed the lead in the mar-ket and yielded readily, followed by Union Pacific, upon which there was considerable pressure from long dealings. San Francisco, preferred, was de-pressed without apparent cause. Interest was transferred to New England in the afternoon and a prominent room trader was very active in offer-ing the slock down, and these served to increase the demoralization in stocks, which contributed nearly one-half of the entire business done.

Gould stock and Vanderbilts were comparatively well held, and grangers were quite neglected, while movements in them were of no special importance, although the sagging tendency affected the entire

NEW YORK, October 29. - [Special.]-Henry Clews NEW YORK, October 22.—[Special.]—Henry Clews & Co.'s circular: Liverpool opened 1-64 lower this morning with a sale of only 8,000 bales, and at the close a further decline of 11462-64d was reported with the tone easy. Our early trading was marked with considerable weakness, prices being 3@4 points off, and there was a pressure to sell both long cotton and for short account. In fact, the bears showed a bolder front than they have for some time, though the volume of business was not sufficiently large for brilliant operations, the sales for the day being only brilliant operations, the sales for the day being only 64,000 bales. Later in the day it was evident that receipts would be light, and this acted as a check to the decline, causing some desire to cover the early the decline, causing some desire to cover the early sales and resulting in a recovery of 2@3 points, the market closing very steady. There is frost predicted in some of the Atlantic states tonight, and should it fall, prices may be better tomorrow morning, but there seems to be nothing substantial on which to base hope of much higher prices in the near future, and it seems safe to sell on bulges. Spots are in fair demand at unchanged prices. The receipts for the day were about 31,000 bales less than last year.

John S. Ernest. NEW YORK, October 29.—Hubbard, Price & Co.'s ootton circular to-day says: Our market displayed great steadiness after opening quotations, and closed with but slight loss from Saturday. Receipts at ports have influenced the operation of our speculators and induced much hesitancy as to the selling market until some increase in movement shall become manifest.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Features of the Speculative Movement in Grain and Provisions. CHICAGO. October 29-Trading in wheat was uite active at opening at 34@1c advance on Saturday's closing, being a continuation of Saturday's firmness, Shorts were anxious to cover and at the same time offerings were liberal, a local trader sell-ing freely of wheat bought at lower figures. The result of liberal offerings caused a weaker feeling, and prices declined one cent for December and 2c for May below early extreme outside figures. After opening, the market remained quiet and dull during most of the session, becoming weak, and clo at about the same as Saturday for December, and 10 lower for May.

Corn ruled rather quiet most of the session, trading being only moderately active and mainly local. The first prices were 1/4@1/4c under Saturday's close and the market gradually sold off 1/4@1/4c, reacted ruled steady, and closed 1/4@%c lower than Satur There was some increase in speculative trading in onts. Trading was mainly in May, but near fu-tures came in for some business. May ranged 1.63%c lower, and other futures were %c easier. Pork was steadier on moderate trading. Prices uled 5@10c higher, and closed steady. Lard was stronger and 10@15c higher on moderate

Short ribs sides attracted very little attention, and trading was light. The feeling was firmer, and prices ruled 5@7%c higher.

We did not go to make moneyall that we went for was that we might demenstrate the wonderful power of our simple little invention. And look at the results, Despite the opposition of leverybody, we have made a record on which we are glad to stand. During the time we were there we treated ninety-five cases and lost but four, which is less than half the average mortality. Of the four who died, two were taken by us after they had had black vomit, and the other two died from the lack of proper nurses. We took four cases after they had had black vomit and cured two. We treated, among the ninety-five, cases as sick as were ever seen." "And your apparatus?"
"King-Hall very gratuitiously called our system a fraud, and that, too, when he knew nothing about it. But he had seen it once, and the description he gave to THE CONSTITUis very simple, and I really can't blame peo-ple who see it for the first time for being credulous. The theory upon which the whole thing is based is that disease is a disorder of the electrical conditions of the body. There is a cylinder about an inch in diameter and three or four inches long, connected with a three or four inches long, connected with a garter, which is fastened around the ankle of the patient to be treated. The cylinder is wound with fine wire and a piece of insolated wire connects it to a disc of metal, which is fastened to the garter. There is no current of electricity at all. The cure is effected entirely through the laws of induction. The human body is one pole of a polarized battery, and, this disc is another.

"A rather peculiar fact is that this apparatus has exactly the same effect upon magnets that it has upon people. The same process that makes a man sick weakens a magnet. Dr. Sanche and I spent some time in Washington last year experimenting with magnets, and the results were far more satisfactory than we expected. Why we could almost see the chilts run up and down the needle when we applied the process which would make a well man sick."

"Where did you get this system?"
"Where did you get this system?"
"I first heard of Dr. Sanche through an old bridge builder at Birmingham. I went to Birmingham as superintendent of the Watts Coal and Iron company, having gone there from Durham, N. C. Dr. Sanche was, when I heard of him, was at Port Gibson, Mississippi. The old bridge builder I speke of said that he had seen the dector stand a dozen men up in line and distribute among them a case up in line and seen the dector stand a dozen men up in line and distribute among them a case of fever, taking it from one man and giving a intile to each of the others, thus curing the one who had it. That was in June, 1887. I have followed him ever since, have devoted my time and about $2,000 of my money to it. You see by that I consider it of value. Indeed, if nothing more ever comes of it I shall feel more time and about $2,000 of my money to it. You see by that I consider it of value. Indeed, if nothing more ever comes of it I shall feel more than repaid in the cures it has wrought upon my sister and upon my father who had been paralyzed twelve and half years."

"And in Jacksonville?"

"And in Jacksonville?"

"As I said, we worked under great disadvantages in Jacksonville. There wasn't a physician who would give us any consideration, and the only newspaper man disposed to be fair with us was poor Martin, who died. Oh, I would have given my right arm for a chance to save him. But the rest treated us badly. We could get no consideration from the board of health. Why, I offered to treat all the cases that came to the medical bureau. Dr. Neal Mitchell, president of the board, asked me if I were willing to treat the first ten eases on condition that I should go to jail for the first death. I told him that I would not only do that, but I would also agree to take every case that came to the bureau upon the same conditions—that I was to be jailed for the first death. Despite all this Dr. Mitchell gave me no opportunity to make a practical gave me no opportunity to make a practical test; all he did was to talk theory with me about two hours,"

"You went at your own expense?"
"Entirely so; and the doctors said that I took the biggest risk in the world in doing so. You see I went right to a house where there had been a good many cases, in the center of the infected district. The only precaution I took were there are of our approximation I took was to strap one of our apparatus to my

the infected district. The only precaution I took was to strap one of our apparatus to my leg for a few hours each evening. I had been no where near yellow fever before, still I escaped without ratching it. We had 95 cases in all, and took nothing but well defined cases of yellow fever—those which had all the symptoms. As I told you, our rate of mortality was less than one-half the usual rate. We have affidavits from almost all of our patients and the list of those we treated is with the Duval county board of health.

"Some of the prominent one. Yes, I can tell you of some. The second day I got there Mr. Martin had me see the foreman of the Times-Union job office, Mr. Connolly, I think his name is. He was quite siek. In an hour after we had applied our apparatus he was relieved and had fallen into a sound sleep. Why, half of our patients were siek not more than two days, and the one longest sick was out in ten days. Three-tenths of them were discharged for cured within a week. We cured several cases of chronic dysentery along with the fever. If we were called in at the beginning of an attack we invariably brought relief within two hours."

"What was the reason for your being so illy treated?" 'What was the reason for your being so illy

"Simply because the doctors were incredu-lous. But when I think about it, I don't blame them much for being incredulous, do you? The apparatus is so simple and so harm-less that it is not in accord with the ideas of those who have always been used to pouring down strong physic and those who have been educated to taking it."

"Your method contemplates the cure of all disease, then?" disease, then?"
"Yes, of everything. We claim to have solved the whole question of disease. Why, our testimonials are the strongest possible. Rev. C. N. Morrow, of Hawthorne, Fla., says if cured him of typhoid pneumonia, and he tells of having cured in three hours a man who had been bitten by a rattlesnake, and who had It cured him of typhoid pneumonia, and he tells of having cured in three hours a man who had been bitten by a rattlesnake, and who had come to his house for treatment. J. O. Jelks, of Hawkinsville, Ga., says that it cured him of chronic dyspepsia; Engene Morehead, of Durham, N. C., says that we cured him of Durham, it cured him of Bright's disease after the doctors had told him that they could do nothing for him. And there are many other festimonials of the same indisputable kind. We have the tumost confidence in it, and feel certain that if given any sort of support in Jacksonville we would have demonstrated it a sure cure for yellow fever. We have this much confidence—that we are going to open a private hospital in Jacksonville in January, where we will make a speciality of all kinds of chronic diseases."

"What's the matter with living forever?"

"Well, old age and accident will be the only things that can produce death if our system comes into general use. That we firmly believe."

Why should you complain of being tired and run down when Hood's Sarsaparilla imparts such strength and energy to the whole system? Try it, and you will feel as if made anew.

sippl. The old bridge builder I spoke of said that he had seen the dector stand a dozen men up in line and distribute among them a case of fever, taking it from one man and giving a intite to each of the others, thus curing the one who had it. That was in June, 1887. I have followed him ever since, have devoted my time and about $2,000 of my money to it. You see by that I consider it of value. Indeed, if nothing more ever comes of it I shall feel more than repaid in the cures if has wrought upon my sister and upon my father who had been paralyzed twelve and half years."

"And in Jacksonville?"

"As I said, we worked under great disadvantages in Jacksonville. There wasn't a physician who would give us any consideration, and the only newspaper man disposed to be fair with us was poor Martin, who died. Oh, I would have given my right arm for a chance to save him. But the rest treated us badly. We could get no consideration from the board of health. Why, I offered to treat all the cases that came to the medical bureau. Dr. Neal Mitchell, president of the board, asked me if I were willing to treat the first treateners or condition the I should get to is it. all the cases that came to the medical bureau. Dr. Neal Mitchell, president of the board, asked me if I were willing to treat the first ten cases on condition that I should go to jail for the first death. I told him that I would not only do that, but I would also agree to take every case that came to the bureau upon the same conditions—that I was to be jailed for the first death. Despite all this Dr. Mitchell gaveling to concertuity to make a practical gave me no opportunity to make a practical test; all he did was to talk theory with me

"You went at your own expense?"

"Entirely so; and the doctors said that I took the biggest risk in the world in doing so. You see I went right to a house where there had been a good many cases, in the center of the infected district. The only precaution I took was to strap one of our apparatus to my leg for a few hours each evening. I had been no where near yellow fever before, still I escaped without catching it. We had 95 cases in all, and took nothing but well defined cases of yellow fever—those which had all the symptoms. As I told you, our rate of mortality was less than one-half the usual rate. We have affidavits from almost all of our patients and the list of those we treated is with the Duval county board of health.

"Some of the prominent ones? Yes, I can county board of health.

"Some of the prominent ones? Yes, I can tell you of some. The second day I got there Mr. Martin had me see the foreman of the Times-Union job office, Mr. Connolly, I think his name is. He was quite sick. In an hour after we had applied our apparatus he was relieved and had fallen into a sound sleep. Why, half of our patients were sick not more than two days, and the one longest sick was out in ten days. Three-tenths of them were discharged for cured within a week. We cured several cases of chronic dysentery along with several cases of chronic dysentery along with the fever. If we were called in at the beginning of an attack we invariably brought relief within two hours."

"What was the reason for your being so illy treated?"

"Simply because the doctors were increduloas. But when I think about it, I don't biame them much for being incredulous, do you? The apparatus is so simple and so harmless that it is not in accord with the ideas of those who have always been used to pouring down strong physic and those who have been educated to taking it."
"Yet a strong physic and those who have been educated to taking it." "Your method contemplates the cure of all disease, then?"

disease, then?"

Yes, of overything. We claim to have solwed the whole question of disease. Why, our testimonials are the strongest possible. Rev. C. N. Morrow, of Hawthorne, Fla., says it have been supported by the control of the Rev. C. N. Morrow, of Hawthorne, Fla., says it cured him of typhoid pneumonia, and he tells of having cured in three hours a man who had been bitten by a rattlesnake, and who had come to his house for treatment. J. O. Jeiks, of Hawkinsville, Ga., says that it cured him of chronic dyspepsia; Engene Morehead, of Durham, N. C., says that we cured him of consumption; Boland Williams, of Mississippi, writes that it cured him of Bright's disease after the doctors had told him that they could do nothing for him. And there are many other festimonials of the same indisputable kind. We have the utmost confidence in it, and feel certain that if given any sort of support in Jacksonville we would have demonstrated it a sure cure for yellow fever. We have this much confidence—that we are going to open a private hospital in Jacksonville in January, where we will make a speciality of all kinds of chronic diseases."

"What's the matter with living forever?"

"Well, old age and accident will be the only things that can produce death if our system obmes into general use. That we firmly believe."

Why should you complain of being tired and run down when Hood's Sarsaparilla imparts such strength and energy to the whole system? Try it, and you will feel as if made anew.

Johnson City, Tenn., January 4, 1888.—Dr. B. M. Woolley, Auanta, Ga. My Dear Sir: I have been very negligent in this one duty. I can say that I have never varied one iota from your directions, and took your Antidote regular from' first dose of Antidote. I never had the least desire or appetite for morphine, of which deadly drug I was a slave for three years previous to the above date, taking it s dally. I was becoming such a victim t it that my life was a burthen to me, but am happy. to say I am a free man today, and shall ever be thankful to you and your Antidote, and am ready to bear witness to its virtues at any time, and will correspond with any one who may wish to make a trial of your Antidote, for it is just what you say it is, and I do trust and pray that every one who is addicted to the awful habit of morphine may have an opportunity of getting relief in the way I did. ON TO BRUNSWICK.

A RAILROAD MAN'S OPINION OF THE ATLANTA AND FLORIDA.

Its Extension to Brunswick an Absolute Necessity—A Palace Car Combination Gossip and News of General Interest.

Will the Kansas City, Fort Scott and Mem phis build to Atlanta? is still a leading and important question with those who are inter-ested in the railroad future of Atlanta. As THE CONSTITUTION has already stated, there is not only a possibility, but a strong probability that the magnificent system, of which the Kansas City, Fort Scott and Memphis and the line to Birmingham, is an imporphis and the libe to Birmingham, is an important feeder, building to this city.

Said a prominent railroad man yesterday:

"The Constitution is quite right in saying, as it did yesterday, that the question of extending the Kansas City, Fort Scott and Memphis road to Atlanta from Birmingham is full of interest to our people. This is a very important road, and is backed by a wealthy and liberal company. It is certain that this road will be extended to Atlanta, provided the Atlanta and Florida road is completed to Brunswick, so as not only to give Atlanta a free outlet to the sea, but also allowing the Kansas City, Fort Scott and Memphis the same outlet. I know the latter road is anxious to come to Atlanta and make the connection to come to Atlanta and make the connection I speak of, but they will not come to Atlanta to be bottled up here by the Terminal combi-

"Then you consider the extension of the Atlanta and Florida to Brunswick a very important matter?" ortant matter?"
"I do, most assuredly. Whenever this is done, Atlanta, in the Kansas City, Fort Scott and Memphis road, would have another direct route to the great western markets, and get the control of an enormous additional amount of traffic and travel from that direction."
"There are other important roads?"
"Cartains. The Consensations and

"Certainly. The Constitution, time and time again, has demonstrated the immense importance of the Marietta and North Georgia to Atlanta, with its extension north and south, but it would profit us little without the completion of the Atlanta and Florida to Brunswick, the neutral certifications of the Atlanta and Florida to Brunswick.

pletion of the Atlanta and Florida to Brunswick, the natural continuous outlet of the Marietta and North Georgia to the sea.

"Withlithe Statelroad|kept intact, free from all alien control, the Marietta and North Georgia extended east via Knoxville and Bristol, and to Atlanta, and the Kansas City, Fort Scott and Memphis brought to Atlanta and these great lines connected with the Atlanta and Florida, what a magnificent system of roads would be tributary to the interests of Atlanta, making her the greatest and most independent center of traffic and travel in all the south."

"You have certainly figured out a strong

"You have certainly figured out a strong situation for Atlanta." situation for Atlanta."

"Not a line stronger that the facts warrant. But every sensible man will at once see that it depends, after all, on the completion of the Atlanta and Florida road to Brunswick, and a prudent policy by the legislature in regard to the fate of the State road. The opening of the Atlanta and Florida to the sea at Brunswick is the solution of the problem. On this hings the question which most concerns the city of Atlanta."

The Judgment Affirmed.

The Judgment Affirmed. WASHINGTON, October 29.—The supremount today affirmed the judgment of the supremo court of the state of Georgia in the case of the Georgia Railroad and Banking company, plaintiff in error, vs. the railroad commissioners of Georgia.

The railroad commissioners, by the authority of the state legislature, prescribed what should be rea-The railroad commissioners, by the authority of the state legislature, prescribed what should be reasonable and just rates of transportation, and the railroad company brought an action against them, claiming that the rates established constituted an impairment of the contract between the state and the company, its charter, granted in 1863, having given it the exclusive right of transportation over roads it might construct, provided its transpotation charges did not exceed certain fixed rates. The supreme court, in an opinion by Justice Field, says "that the reserved right of the state to regulate the charge by common carriers cannot be taken away except by a contract expressed in clear and unequivocal language. The charter of the company, the court holds, simply provides that the company shall have exclusive right to carry passengers and merchandise over its road so long as the maximum rates specified are not exceeded. It contains no stipulation nor is any implied as to any future action of the legislature.

"If the exclusive right remains undisturbed there can be no just ground of complaint that other limitations than these expressed are placed upon charges authorized. It would require much clearer language than this to justify the court in holding that, notwithstanding the altered conditions of the country in the future, the legislature had contracted that the company might charge for the transportation of persons and property over its line for all time, up to the limits there designated."

The Louisville-Cincinnati Rivalry.

The Louisville-Cincinnati Rivalry. The International Traffic association met in St. Louis Friday for the first time since its organ zation out of the Texas Traffic association. The ization out of the Texas Traine association. The session promises to last several days. A committee consisting of three general managers was appointed to arrange the much vexed question of the Cincin-nati and Louisville differential, which has been a dirturbing factor in southeastern rates as well as in business, clunati insists on the same rate that Louisville gets to the southeast and to Texas, a proposition opposed by the latter city, and both places want to wipe out their differential rates in St. Louis and Texas business. The trouble at El Paso over the international rates was also taken up. Norfolk and Western Earnings.

The statement of the Norfolk and Western railroad company for September, 1883, as compared with the same month last year, shows an increase of gross earnings of $25,486; increase in expenses, nine months ended September 30, as compared with the corresponding period of 1887, an increase is shown in gross earnings of 5500,005; increase in ex-penses, $401,838; increase in net earnings $188,257. The net earnings for the nine months were $1,398, 553.

Your "Uncle Rufus." "Uncle Rufus" Hatch was in Chicago a day or two ago and yielded to the interviewer of the Chicago Tribune.

In answer to a question as to what he thought of the condition of railroad affairs in America, "Uncle Rufus" said:

"There are too many roads. Parallel lines paralyze each other. I have been told by the biggest railroad men within the last few days that they have at stopped building. The Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe is badly off. Its stock is non-dividend paying and will be so for years. People must take into consideration that the interstate commerce law is abroad and that after the western states have had low tariffs you can't put them up again in a day."

day."
"How about Jay Gould's railroad stocks?"
"Gould is liquidating. I am told that he says the other roads have stole his patents for watering stocks, and that it has made him sick. So long as he could put bonds on the market and sell them he was all right, but the other roads are on to his game,' and, as he is getting old, he is liquidating."
"What do you think of Villard's return to prosperity?" "What do you think of villard's return to pros-perity?"
"Villard and his golden spike cost me $400,000.
He is a magnetic man. He got $40,000,00 and thought that would pull him through, but when he retired from the Northern Pacific he was $20,000,000 in debt. He will do better this time, because he is like the man who was kicked by the mule. He don't look quite as handsome, but he knows an eternal sight more."

A Valnable Invention.

A Valuable Invention. vice that enables the engineer, when in to turn a switch, which can be closed again e rear of the train, has been invented. It is d in connection with the "central-throw" and consists in a "shoe," which is dropped e forward and rear trucks. This strikes a which is overthrown, and the switch closed ed, as the case may be. A switch left open ly may thus be closed by the locomotive high speed, or a train side-tracked quickly of danger.

A Good Old Engine. Engine No. 53, on the Ohio and Mississippi road, which is attracting so much attention as a fast runner, with heavy trains, is an old engine rebuilt at the company's shops, in Vincennes, at a cost of only $4,490. Superintendent Bent says that this engine handles their night passenger trains, with ten or twelve cars, four of them sireping-coaches, with perfect ease, on a division 120 miles long, passing over it in six hours. Many of the grades are fifty to sixty feet to the mile, and curves four to six degress.

A Palace Car Pool.

The New York Herald has the following information, concerning the palace car combination that will affect the service on southern roads, so that will affect the service on southern roads, so soon as the Pullman car contracts expire.

The Herald says: It may be stated with authority that an organization to be known as the Union Pala; e Car company has been formed by parties holding a controlling interest in the Mann Boudoir and Woodruft sleeping car commanies. A large interest in these companies had been sequired by the Jackson & Sharp company and the Harlan & Hollingsworth company of this city, in whose workshops many of the cars for the Mann and Woodruff companies have been built and slock largely taken in payment therefor. It is stated that the new company has been organized with a capital of $3,000.00. Contracts have been along a capital of $3,000,000. Contracts have been slaced by the new company with the Jackson a snarp and Harian & Holliegsworth companies for the building of thirty-four sleeping cars, and the Union company has also perfected arrangements for the exclusive use of its cars upon the lines of railroad now controlled by the Richmond and West Point Terminal company. The Mann Boudoir company controls the sleeping car service on roads connecting Cincionati and New Orleans, and several other important lines, and the Woodruff company the sleeping car service on the Reading, the Long Island, and a great many Western railroads.

A Traffic Arrangement. It is given out on the best authority that the Louisville and Nashville has secured traffic arrange-ment with the Louisville, St. Louis and Texas railment with the Louisville, St. Louis and Texas rallroad, which is now being completed from Louisville via Owensboro, Ky., to Henderson, by which it will run two dady lightning express trains through from Cincinnati and Louisville to St. Lcu's.
The Louisville, St. Louis and Texas will be completed in two weeks, and the arrangement spoken of will take effect becember 1. The new road has been thoroughly built, and will be given a limestone ballast from West Point to Henderson. The United States Express company has secured the express contract over the Louisville, St. Louis and Texas.

ANOTHER SCHEME THAT THE REPUBLICANS WERE GO-

ING TO WORK. BUT IT WAS PUBLISHED TOO SOON When Too Late for Denial They Were to

Put Out a Story of the Cobden Club's Alding Democracy. INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., October 30 .- [Staff Correspondence.]—For several days quiet rumors have prevailed in certain quarters to the effect the republicans had in keeping, to spring upon the people next Sunday morning—so that upon the people next Sunday morning—so that it could not be answered in time—a still greater it could not be answered in time—a still greater sensation than the Sackville West letter.

A gentleman high in republican counsels has just returned from a trip to Max Quay in New York. Part of the budget has been let you have been let in the sense has been let in the s York. Part of the budget has been let out, but by far the most important part is yet to be told. According to rumor the national republican committee claim to have positive knowledge that the Cobden club of England has raised a fund of one million dollars for the democratic canvass. It is said that they have evidence that a large It is said that they have evidence that a large check from that source was paid through a Boston bank a few weeks ago. The publication of the Sackville-West letter brought matters, so it is said, to a crisis, and the Cobden club at once cabled one million dellars for the use of the national committee.

This story invested with mystery, invested with a great deal of mystery, has been very carefully prepared. It was the purpose to spring it from Indianapolis in the Sunday papers, when but one day would intervene until election day. In the storm which would thus be raised over the spending of foreign worsey to influence the class. of foreign money to influence the elec-tion the republicans hoped to carry the election through with a rush. Of course the exposure of the story would follow later, but the election of General Harrison would have been accomplished, thus making the end justify the means.

This plan, which has been hatched with conaummate skill, and which now finds premature publication, was intended to have a local result, if it failed of its national effect, and that was to run up the price of floating votes in this state. The republican workers are busily engaged ferreting out democratic workers and assuring them that the democratic committee has at its disposal hundreds of thousands of dollars. The object is to make the workers strike for higher pay, and thus cripple the democrats, who are really short of funds for even the necessary expenses of a state cam-

THE CLOSING DEMONSTRATION. Today the closing monster demonstration of the republicans took place in Terre Haute, the home of Dan Vorhees. It is also the home of Uncle Dick Thompson, ex-President Hayes's secretary of the navy, which is not so much to its credit. The first regiment of Harrison's federal veterans, with fife and drum, were on their way to the depot when your correspond-ent dropped in, determined to have his share of the day's performances. The first revelation made on the train was the fact that the whole three hundred men had their fare paid by the state central republican committee. It is thus that the republicans get up imposing demonstrations. Opposite to me sat a sharp featured man who seemed to be full of the occasion. He gave his name as Oakey, an ex-marshal of Terre Haute and a member of Harrison's old regiment during the war.

"I am against Cleveland," he said, "becaus he was willing to return the rebel flags. By God, we captured them, and no man must ever return them. The rebels should be satisfied that we let them live, and not try to run this government. The northern democrats only help to put the rebel democrats of the south on top. The southern people have no right to hold office."

"But who would govern the southern states in that case?" I interrupted. "The negroes, and the loyal men; and no man who ever tried to break up the govern-confederate generals ought not show their "But what about such generals as Mosby Mahone and Longstreet?"

"They should never had anything. We would have had peace if a hundred southern generals had been hanged. If it had not been for Cleveland all our boys would now be drawing of the old soldier." This is a sample of the average republican sentiment among those who are not politically discreet. The old flag and an appropriation, more especially the appropriation, is the grand object in view. It is boodle for votes and then life-long boodle for the military service of twenty-five years ago. This is the bond which links so many of them together.

HOVEY LEADING THE GANG.

Thousands greeted the Harrison veterans as they stepped off the train at Terre Haute, and indue time the great parade was on its way, led off by the republican candidate for governor, General Hovey, and the notorious Corporal Tanner.

There were military in line as well as squads of veterans. Hundreds of riders on horseback, male and female, rode through the streets singing campaign songs amid the plaudits of the crowd. Along the sidewalk. ladies, young and pretty, were dressed in white, with blue sashes, and wearing military caps. In one company the white and blacks rode promiscuously. Large band wagons filled with little girls, from six to ten, first of one color and then another, followed. The trades feature of the parade was really magnificent. The displays were so arranged as to show that

'That will do well enough for a show," said an old gentleman at my elbow whose name I subsequently learned to be Frische, "but the

I encouraged the old gentleman to prove it,

"I voted for W. H. Harrison in 1840, but I will not vote for his grandson. Mr. Cleveland has made the best president we have had in my life time. This is the first time in thirty years that the people of Indiana have had an issue. The farmers call for tariff reform. This county voted by 140 majority for Blaine. but it will now give 200 majority for Cleve-hand. The people have been ground down by taxation and now they have a chance to throw it over and now they are going to do so. The old soldiers are making a great noise about their pensions, but one half of the voters are men who have grown up since the war. Those men have no interest in extravagant pensions, and will not vote for taxation DEMOCRATS NOT SCARED Just then I came across Editor Ball, of the Terro Haute Gazette. "The procession," said he, "does not scare us. The republicans have control of the railroads and get terms for their own demonstrations, which are never accorded the democrats. In fact there is reason to believe that whole trainloads of republicans. licans are trasported from point to point free of cost. The excuse is put up that the committee pays for it, but I do not believe it.
